The concept of 'Risk Assessment' can often strike fear amongst organisations and to those people responsible for carrying them out.

In 2017 the MPA Incident Survey - 'Resetting the Conversation & Direction', highlighted the differences in the approach to risk assessment within the MPA, which was broadly supported by voting at last year's Health & Safety Conference and Awards.

Reflecting on Members' feedback mentioned above the Safer by Sharing Seminars for 2018 will focus on the 'Management of Risk' and 'Risk Assessment'.

The seminars will dispel the myths around risk assessments and explain, in very easy terms, how to approach them and how to carry out your own. This seminar will take delegates through some of the most effective and yet 'easy to use' formats available including the sharing of best practice.

The skill to completing a good risk assessment is to prioritise risks and then focus on areas where the consequences of hazards are most severe. It really isn't any more complicated than that and it doesn't need to be!

MPA Members, FM Conway, are supporting this year's Safer by Sharing Seminars using their own in-house Risk Trainers to deliver all of the sessions; enhancing skills that have already been learnt or introducing new ones to those who are just starting out.

Seminar will cover

- Relevant Legislation
- Hazards, Risks and Consequences
- Principles of Control
- Practical Exercise 1 - Hazard Spotting
- The Hierarchy of Controls
- Practical Exercise 2 - Risk Analysis
- Sharing of industry best practice

'Resetting the Conversation & Direction' - 3. Managing Risk

- Are we clear about the distinction between hazard and risk?
- Many processes are seen as 'ticking the box' rather than addressing hazard and risk.
- Risk assessment practices are very variable, too complex and can miss the point.
- Much of what we do is driven by defence and protection to prove we are doing the job rather than addressing risk?
